

Storage Solutions

Boxes

There are a range of good standard sized archival boxing solutions available to the museum professional, but if you are looking to re house your collection in an existing storage facility or if space is at a premium, standard sized units can create more problems than they solve. Working closely with Collection Managers and Curators, Pod can design and fabricate custom sized acid free boxes for your collection items so you need not reorganise your entire store to accommodate your newly housed objects. Your collection is safely protected, and your location codes need not be rearranged.

Stillages

Custom fitted open frame support for storage and handling of medium to large three dimensional objects. Pod provides these practical and affordable custom made storage units to major collecting institutions nationwide. The open framework provides a solid perimeter around the object yet allows complete visual access. Once installed by our staff using archivally sound materials, these units can be safely moved with minimum risk to the structural integrity of its contents.
